It's been a busy month upstairs!

Our younger Sunday School children have been working on lessons about how God protects us. After each lesson during the month of September we have concluded with DIY board games to help us remember the Bible stories we are hearing. For example, we worked on the story of Esther and turned it into a pompom ice cube tray race of good deeds, before she could be crowned Queen.

Our Middle Schoolers have been working on their first Bible study of the year. They have also been able to find fun games to relate it back to what they know about the world, and how to read a Bible to help their faith grow. For example, they made pretend social media profiles for the story of Paul. They have also done an amazing job at discovering the meanings of words during biblical times vs today's meanings of words.

Sunday School has decided on the first event for this year. It will be Field Trip for our Middle Schoolers this time. We are also still working on exact details for this year's Mission Project. More info to come on that.

Lastly, I started my Fred Rogers Institute training in September and was happy to learn his Six Fundamentals for Learning and Growing. My Training will be at least twice a month, sometimes three times a month now until May. The first fundamental he believed helped children learn and grow, is the sense of Self Worth. My team of Educators will dive into what this truly means during the month of October using archives from Fred's past. -Rhianna
