God answers our prayers in thoughtful and creative ways!

Sunday school friends took advantage of all the slow rainy days we received in September. Some rested and got used to the back-to-school routine. While others immediately got right back to work and began making a few of our creative kindness projects. Our kindness projects go along with our Bible study theme, Compassion. So far, we have three projects in mind to help us learn and grow through the school year.

Our first project is completed; we made nineteen care packages for all our college students here at Wesley. Each kit included a palm size Bible. Self-care items like tissues, and hand lotions. As well as some fun items like coloring books, toys, and yummy treats. We made these to remind our college students to not stress, have fun, relax, and Jesus loves you!

Our next project is almost complete. It involves a fun day on 10/17 for any of our Wesley families that would like to join me in the town of Barre, MA. Sunday School has been working on a special Trunk or Treat kindness project for a little boy my family knows named Chase. Chase has a severe seizure disorder and loves dressing up for Halloween with his family. Each year Chase has his costumes picked out months in advance. However, this year to give him a better quality of life, his parents have decided to make Halloween come early for him. Come enjoy a fun evening before he receives his much-needed brain surgery at the end of this month.

For this project our Wesley Children helped make a Story Walk of Chase's favorite Cars Disney book! Our Children also made special treats to go in the giveaway buckets next to the book pages for all the children that come to celebrate with him. For more information about this event, or how else you can help Chase's family through this scary surgery, please reach out to me by Wednesday, October 14th.

Sunday School still has more creative thoughts to work on this school year to show God's love to everyone. We plan to take a quick pause this month, to work on some friendship bread recipes we found, as well as start working on our ideas for this year's Christmas play. - Rhianna
